Is your organisation looking for SAS skilled students and graduates?

Owing to SAS being the world's leading business analytics software vendor, and to the large number of academic institutions and businesses using SAS solutions, demand for trained SAS users is high.

SAS has a long history of supporting academia and of helping our customers meet their needs for talented people. One key way in which we do this is through the SAS Work Placement Program, a part of SAS' Academic Program.

The SAS Work Placement Program is a unique initiative that helps match current students and recent graduates with SAS skills to SAS customers as host employers for a 6 to 12 week work placement. The student gains valuable industry experience, an opportunity to demonstrate their skills in a real life working environment and links to permanent employment.

For SAS customers acting as host employers, they have the chance to host a suitably matched student or graduate for 6 to 12 weeks, typically over the summer months. Students are put forward to the host employer based on what the organisation is looking for, with the host employer having the final say on the candidate's suitability for a placement after they interview the student.

This program is offered across Australia and New Zealand. It offers organisation's looking for SAS skills a fantastic and simple way to link up the right people. If the placement proceeds well and the student is offered permanent employment at the conclusion, the organisation stands to make substantial savings in recruitment costs as well. If permanent employment at the conclusion is not possible, employers typically gain a lot over the placement from the student and the student has some fantastic experience on their CV to aid their future search.
