How SAS® Can Help

Alignment between an organization's marketing plans and its corporate goals and objectives can be difficult to achieve. That's because it is largely dependent on how effectively key stakeholders collaborate to create and approve marketing plans – and how easy it is for marketing teams to use approved plans to design and execute associated marketing activities.

The Strategic Planner module of SAS Marketing Operations Management facilitates collaboration among key stakeholders by providing full visibility into marketing plan objectives and schedules, along with mechanisms to enable stakeholders to transparently work together to create and approve plans.

With the Strategic Planner module, you can define and track marketing plans, including all associated programs and integrated campaigns. All parameters relevant to a campaign are captured and can be used to automatically create and update marketing calendars, as well as run a variety of marketing reports.

In addition, the Strategic Planner module provides financial management capabilities that enable you to:

- Identify campaign funding sources.
- Track expenses and schedules at multiple levels throughout the year as market conditions change.
- Forecast and allocate marketing plan budgets based on cost centers.
- Gather vendor estimates, and approve them via a specified workflow.
- Link marketing objectives to expected results for each program and campaign.
- Retrieve actual results by measurement type (numeric, percent, range, etc.), time period and measurement frequency, and use this information to set up and track key performance indicators (KPIs).
- Track marketing effectiveness and ROI.
